Course description
A study of the nature of knowledge and justification (epistemology) and the rationality of religious belief. Topics to be considered include the nature of religious language, the coherence of the concept of God, the problem of evil, religious experience, and the theological significance of recent developments in epistemology.

Course objectives
1. Exhibit an understanding of foundational concepts in epistemology and contemporary proposals on the rationality of religious belief.
2. Carefully present and critically interact with influential proposals on the rationality of religious belief.
3. Develop and present a position on the rationality of religious belief.

The course contributes to the following degree outcomes:
- Demonstrate the skills required for theological reflection. (M.Div.)
- Demonstrate the ability to integrate the scriptures and theological tradition with diverse contemporary cultural contexts. (M.A.C.M. and M.Div.)

Required textbooks
Alvin Plantinga, Knowledge and Christian Belief (Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 2015).

Additional readings, a place to submit assignments, and grades are available on Canvas. To access the Canvas course page, go to http://elearning.harding.edu.
Requirements and grading
1. Reading of assigned texts and class participation
2. Four essay papers (17.5% each)
3. One essay exam (30% each)
Grading scale: 100-93 (A), 92-84 (B), 83-75 (C), 74-70 (D), 69 and below (F)

Students should complete all readings before the session for which they are assigned and should be prepared to contribute to the discussion of the readings in class. Students may be penalized up to ten points (one letter grade) off the final grade for missing more than one class session or being late for more than two class sessions.

Late assignments will receive one point off per day late for the first three days, and then three points off per day late (excluding Sundays), up to 20 points total.

Academic integrity
Academic dishonesty in all its forms is inconsistent with Christian faith and practice, and will result in penalties which could include a failing grade for the assignment, a failing grade for the course, dismissal from the course, and even dismissal from the school.

Credit hour workload
For every course credit hour, the typical student should expect to spend at least three clock hours per week of concentrated attention on course-related work, including but not limited to time attending class, as well as out-of-class time spent reading, reviewing, organizing notes, preparing for upcoming quizzes/exams, problem solving, developing and completing projects, and other activities that enhance learning. Thus, for a three-hour course, a typical student should expect to spend at least nine hours per week dedicated to the course.

Students with disabilities
It is the policy of Harding University to accommodate students with disabilities, pursuant to federal and state law. Any student with a disability who needs accommodation should inform the instructor at the beginning of the course. Students with disabilities are also encouraged to contact Steve McLeod, the Associate Dean, at 901-761-1353.

Library resources
If you have not taken 5990 (Advanced Theological Research) or 5770 (Research in Counseling), or took either class more than a year ago, go to the HST Web site (www.hst.edu) for information concerning library services to students. Under the “library” tab you will find a link to and instructions for searching the HST online catalog. There are also instructions for using the following databases available through the library: OCLC FirstSearch, EBSCOhost, Infotrac, PsycINFO, and Religious and Theological Abstracts. Contact the library for passwords to these databases. Also available are the research guides distributed in 5990 and 5770. These annotated bibliographies list basic tools you will find helpful in your research.
