

BIBLICAL THEOLOGY

R.R.220.3/B344s/1981. Bauer, Johannes Baptist. Encyclopedia of Biblical Theology. New York: Crossroad, 1981.

A one volume edition of Sacramentum Verbi (1970). Contains signed articles (with bibliographies) by 53 European Catholic scholars on the theologically important words of the Bible gauged for a wide audience. Takes special note of the "essential lines of the development of concepts." Contains indexes of Scripture and Hebrew & Greek words.

R.R.230.03/C697. Stuhlmuehler, Carroll. The Collegeville Pastoral Dictionary of Biblical Theology. Collegeville, MN: Liturgical Press, 1996.

Signed articles by Catholic authors are intended to provide information for someone preparing a sermon or Bible lesson. Includes introductory articles "to introduce the reader to key background issues for situating the Bible in its own historical context and for proper interpretation of the Bible within the context of Church life;" major articles with "multiple, distinct components, usually contributed by three different scholars;" secondary articles focusing "on a particular topic, issue, or biblical motif, tracing its context and meaning in the Bible, and where appropriate, suggesting theological and pastoral implications;" and brief entries, which provide essential information on pertinent biblical subjects."

*R.R.230.03/E92. Elwell, Walter A. Evangelical Dictionary of Biblical Theology. Grand Rapids: Baker Books, 1996.

Contains signed articles (with bibliographies attached to longer ones) by 128 Evangelical scholars on the biblical teaching on major theological ideas, on ideas that appear only a few times, and on the theology of individual books of the Bible. Written so that everyone can understand. Full text available at <https://www.biblestudytools.com/dictionaries/bakers-evangelical-dictionary/> and <http://www.studylight.org>

*R.R.230.04103/N532. Alexander, T. Desmond, and Brian S. Rosner. New Dictionary of Biblical Theology. Downers Grove: InterVarsity Press, 2000.

Contains signed articles (with bibliographies) by 125 scholars. Part one contains 12 major articles, arranged thematically, on the fundamental issues of biblical theology; part two contains 7 articles on the theology of the most important biblical corpora, followed by articles (arranged canonically) on the individual books of the Bible. Part three contains articles on the major biblical themes. Provides numerous cross references and an index.

R.R.220.3/O98t. Balentine, Samuel E., ed. The Oxford Encyclopedia of the Bible and Theology. 2v. New York: Oxford University Press, 2015.

Contains nearly 170 signed articles (with bibliographies) by more than 150 international scholars. The "authors track theological issues and themes through the Old and New Testaments, Apocrypha, Pseudepigrapha, Dead Sea Scrolls, gnostic documents and antecedent and contiguous contexts (e.g., ancient Near Eastern, Greco-Roman, early Jewish), extending into postbiblical reception, revision, and reinterpretation by biblical scholars and others (e.g., Mishnah, Talmud, and other rabbinic works; the Apostolic Fathers and other classical and ancient Christians writings, both Greek and Latin)." Volume 2 contains an index and a "Topical Outline of Contents" (439-42) with entries arranged under the following headings: biblical figures, biblical places, biblical sources, biblical themes, cult & worship, deities & demons, and economic, juridical, political, & social issues. Includes cross references.

R.R.220.3/W532. Gowan, Donald E., ed. The Westminster Theological Wordbook of the Bible. Louisville: Westminster John Knox Press, 2003.

Contains signed articles (some with bibliography) by 31 contributors. Its goal is to "help in understanding all the English words of any theological significance" in the NRSV. Articles are written for those who do not know biblical languages and for those either without much theological training or for those who do not need the detailed treatment in more technical works.

PER.205/B582a. Elenchus Bibliographicus Biblicus or Elenchus of Biblica.

Check in the Table of Contents (Index Generalis Elenchi Bibliographici Biblici) especially under the subjects "Hermeneutica biblica" and Theologia biblica." Ceased publication in 2011.

R.R.016.221/M377. Martens, Elmer Arthur. Old Testament Theology. Grand Rapids: Baker Books, 1997.

An annotated classified bibliography of 512 significant books, articles, and essays arranged under the following headings: reference works, serial literature, history of the discipline/state of the discipline, issues in the discipline, perspectives on O.T. theology, O.T. theologies, theologies of corpora, theologies book by book, and monographs on selected biblical themes. "Emphasis is on works written in English." Contains author index.

*R.R.225.3/N532. Brown, Colin. New International Dictionary of N.T. Theology. 3v. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1975-78.

Translation of a German work produced to aid theologians, pastors, and ministers of conservative Protestant backgrounds. Groups words expressing related ideas and concentrates on their theological meaning. English ed. contains many additions and revisions. Vol. 3 contains indexes of Greek, Hebrew, and English words. Addenda published in 1982. A separate Scripture index was published in 1985. Subsequent printings have been done in 4v with all indexes being included in vol. 4. Available on CD-ROM.

R.R.225.3/N734. Verbrugge, Verlyn. The NIV Theological Dictionary of New Testament Words. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2000.

An abridgement and rearrangement of the previous work. Articles are arranged in order by the Greek alphabet with cross references to other Greek words with similar English meanings. The following material has been deleted: all references to secondary literature, the extensive bibliographies, full-length articles on topics that fitted more in the category of systematic theology, articles that discussed the pros and cons of the interpretation of passages, and the history of word usage in classical Greek. The discussions of the same Greek word in multiple entries have been merged into one article. Articles have been included on words not included in the original set.

*R.R.225.3/N532/2014. Silva, Moisés, ed. New International Dictionary of New Testament Theology and Exegesis. 5v. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 2014.

“A thorough reorganization and revision of the New International Dictionary of New Testament Theology.” Revision involved numerous omissions, additions (including new articles) and extensive rewriting so much so that the names of the original contributors are not retained after the articles. Updated bibliographies. Arranged alphabetically by Greek word rather than by concept as in the NIDNTT. In the front of each volume is a comprehensive “List of Concepts” that lists the Greek words discussed relating to that concept. Articles are divided into 3 sections: General Greek usage (GL) covering the classical, preclassical, Hellenistic & Roman times; usage in Jewish writings (JL) including LXX, Pseudepigrapha, Jewish Hellenistic (esp. Philo & Josephus) authors, Qumran, and rabbinic writings; and N.T. usage. Vol. 5 contains indexes to Scripture, Apocrypha, Greek & Jewish Literature, and Post-N.T. Christian literature; and to Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek words. It also includes a “Strong’s to Goodrick-Kohlenberger Number Conversion Chart.”

R.R.487.3/K62t. Kittel, Gerhard. Theological Dictionary of the N.T. 10v. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1964-76.

Annotation is on the Greek language bibliography.

R.R.487.3/K62t/Abr. Kittel, Gerhard, and Gerhard Friedrich. Theological Dictionary of the N.T. Abridged in one vol. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1985.

All entries in the original set are included and presented in the same order and same basic format. "The focus is on the biblical and especially the N.T. usage, so that the related classical, Hellenistic, apocalyptic, rabbinic, and patristic fields receive mere cursory attention." Excludes footnotes and bibliographies.
